Personal

Education: St Edward's College, Liverpool; University of Kent at Canterbury; Trinity Hall, University of Cambridge; Inns of Court School of Law.

Degrees: BA(Hons); M.Phil.

Memberships: Middle Temple; Northern Circuit; Personal Injury Bar Association.

I was born in 1964 and was called to the bar in 1988.

After school in Liverpool, I studied at the University of Kent, University of Cambridge and Inns of Court School of Law in London.

I practice exclusively in personal injury litigation and am a member of the Personal Injury Bar Association.

I sit part-time as a President of the Mental Health Tribunal.

I am married with three children and live locally.

Practice

For a number of years, I had a general practice in Common Law and Crime. Inevitably, this involved a good deal of jury work as well as appearances at every level of the judicial structure from the Court of Appeal down to Huyton Magistrates' Court. Since the mid 1990s, I have focused ever increasingly in personal injury work and now practice exclusively this discipline.

As part of a strong team of juniors and silks, my personal injury practice is a mix of Claimant and Defendant work. Inevitably, as the years have passed, I have done more and more high value work. As one would expect, my work includes industrial injuries and disease work, road traffic accidents, tripping and slipping claims and the like. I am regularly in Court and have a large paperwork practice.
