Prior to joining Three Stone Chambers, Adam practised as an employed barrister at Clyde & Co. where he acted in numerous insurance and reinsurance matters often with an international dimension, including:

- Litigation arising out of the major insurance fraud trial, Sphere Drake v EIU & SCB (2002);
- The first insurance business transfer scheme under the Financial Markets and Services Act 2000 WASA International & AGF Insurance Limited v WASA;
- An insurance claim arising out of investors' allegations of the misselling of split capital investment trusts;
- The recovery of US$115 million on behalf of the Turkish Government and Italian contractors as a result of earthquake damage to the Ankara/Istanbul Highway in 1999, in the subsequent litigation in the High Court (KGM & Astaldi SPA v Generali Kent Sigorta & others (2002)) and in associated ICC arbitration proceedings in Zurich;
- An arbitration for a Lloyds syndicate against reinsurers, in respect of claims on its catastrophe aviation cover;
- An arbitration for a life insurer concerning a premium rebate overpayment by reinsurers amounting to £100 million.
