Motoring & Vehicle Crime CV Overview

David has developed and maintains a heavyweight criminal practice which is made up of predominantly defence work, although he has significant experience of both prosecuting and defending a whole range of cases involving motoring and vehicle crime including fatal and non-fatal accidents, frauds, car-ringing, as well as the more regular road traffic offences.

Many cases require specialist knowledge and very often a sensitive approach. David has the required mix of an up-to-date awareness of the relevant legislation together with an ability to deal (both outside and inside court) with technical expert evidence.

He is often requested by clients to act on a private basis due to his reputation for successfully dealing with road traffic matters both in the Magistrate's and Crown Courts.
