Overview

Andrew is experienced specialist practitioner in matrimonial finance, private law children matters and injunctions.

Andrew is very client focused and puts his clients at ease at the earliest opportunity. Whilst sensitive and empathetic to the situations facing his clients, he offers firm, independent and realistic advice, whilst adopting a practical and proactive approach.

Over the course of his practice lay clients have included senior judiciary and other legal and medical professionals, Premier League footballers and other international sports people. He prioritises and sees the importance in each individual case regardless of financial value or scale.

He offers a fast turnaround on paperwork and is happy to speak with solicitors either in or out of hours for ad-hoc queries or assistance.

He sits as a Deputy District Judge in family and civil cases.
